why not use actors who actually juice such as Jackman, Hemsworth, Pratt, etc?

They're too old. This is a story about when they were young.

I feel sorry for these guys who get these roles simply because they spend 5 hours in the gym everyday and have to be on a diet all the time. I mean, at least they're working, but it's not a fun life.

Colton Haynes as Jack Lalanne is slaying me. I can't stop laughing. LaLanne had a very distinctive voice, so I'm wondering if they will even have Haynes attempt it.

do you feel bad for the female actors who spend hours working out daily just to get cast in ANY role?

Actors and actresses both have to stay in shape. Show business is an equal opportunity offender when it comes to being cast on TV or in films. Were any of the FRIENDS cast overweight or out of shape when that show was cast? Three men, three women, all relatively slim. Unless they're playing character parts that require them to not be thin and beautiful, all actors have to stay in shape to get cast, regardless of gender.

These guys have to spend hours in the gym everyday and stay on a strict diet for roles like this, same as Hugh Jackman for Wolverine or Zac Efron for Baywatch. It's part of their job, more akin to the way Victoria's Secret models have to maintain a certain figure.

My point was that they're being hired for their bodies, not their acting ability. That also applies to some actresses.
